

DIS Student Meeting

There was a short meeting with DIS students to continue working on the site and course content.

iMaker Monday: Theme, Events, & Uses

Dr. Landbeck reviewed the list of technology with the DIS students and members of the help desk for the grant proposal he is preparing. The students suggested that additional computers should be added to the list: several Macbook Pros and a Mac Pro with higher end components with a final cost nearing $6,000.

Development licenses were discussed for Apple, but these licenses are annual renewal and cannot be applied for through this particular grant application. Android Studio software and development rights are free under Android and Google.

The technology grant's list order was finalized during this meeting.

A suggestion was made to model the technology protection protocols of Strozier Library. The students must sign a contract stipulating that they are responsible for any of the equipment that is checked out on their account. The student is bound by the contract to provide fees toward the replacement of the technology that was in their possession
